Section 1: CORE LEGAL STUDIES COURSES

Required courses for the minor (note: either LEST 301 or LEST 380 may satisfy core course requirement).

LEST 210-010/80  The Law and You  W  12:20-1:10pm
Instructor: Rise

Provides an opportunity for students to learn more about how the law affects them directly. Prominent guest speakers cover current issues relating to the law, how it operates and how it may affect students and other members of the university community.

LEST 380-012  Introduction to Law  TR  2:00-3:15pm
Instructor: Pollack

Cross-listed as: POSC380

This course offers a broad introduction to the American legal system. It is designed to expose students to the demands of legal reasoning and provide some insight into what it may be like to attend law school.

The class explores the sources, objectives, and content of American law, the structure and processes of federal and state courts, and the functions of the various players who make up the legal system. It includes an overview of select substantive topics, such as criminal, contract, tort and property law. Like a law school classroom, participation is mandatory. Students will be called on at random and will be expected to discuss the assigned cases and materials. It is thus essential that students come to class prepared.

Note: ALL students who would like to register for this course MUST attend the first class. Students who do not attend the first class, including those on the waiting list, will NOT be permitted to add this course.

This section DOES NOT meet the A&S Second Writing requirement.

LEST 401-010
Senior Seminar: Law and Social Science
W 5:30-8:30pm
Instructor: Leon

Site note: class is held at Baylor Women's Correctional Institution in New Castle.

This class investigates the empirical study of law and its effects. The material and the analytic approach reflect multiple disciplines including sociology, penology, anthropology, political science, and gender studies. Topics include criminalization and deviance, neighborhood conflicts, agency and identity, the role of legal institutions including police, courts and prisons in shaping society as well as law in everyday life, including sports and pop culture. The class is intended as a compliment to Sociology of Law, but does not assume any prior knowledge. It serves as an introduction to research within the field of Law and Society.

The class is an INSIDE OUT course held in conjunction with the Baylor Women's Correctional Institution. Enrollment requires permission of the instructor, and includes a background check and security briefing. Informational interviews will be held Thursday November 1, from 2-3 PM in 321 Smith Hall.

Criminal Procedures
Instructor: Danberg
T 6:00pm-9:00pm

This course examines the constitutional law of criminal procedure as it has developed through decisions of the United States Supreme Court. Topics of discussion will include due process of law, arrest, search and seizure, electronic surveillance, the right to counsel, self-incrimination, trial by jury and sentencing. Students will learn how to read, analyze and brief Supreme Court cases. In-class participation is a substantial component of the final grade. This course should be informative for any student considering attending law school or for anyone with an interest in our criminal justice system. There are no prerequisites, and no prior experience is required.

Note:  ALL students who would like to register for this course MUST attend the first class. Students who do not attend the first class, including those on the wait list, will NOT be permitted to add this course.

Notes: Students are required to attend the first class meeting.
Open to students whose major or minor requires this course.
Not open to Freshmen.
Appeals to those with an interest in Law.
This course focuses on the Supreme Court’s interpretation of the First Amendment of the United States Constitution. Through intensive readings of Supreme Court cases, the course will explore the constitutional freedoms of speech, press, religion, and the separation of church and state.

The class examines a broad range of First Amendment topics, comparable to what a student would cover in a law school First Amendment class. We will read constitutional decisions addressing school prayer, government subsidies for religion, speech that provokes violence, defamation, threatening speech, commercial advertising, obscenity, child pornography, hate speech, expression in public places, government speech, symbolic expression, and freedom of association.

Participation is mandatory. Students will be called on randomly throughout the duration of each class. Students are required to consistently come to class prepared to discuss the assigned cases and materials.

Note: ALL students who would like to register for this course MUST attend the first class. Students who do not attend the first class, including those on the waiting list, will NOT be permitted to add this course.

Open to students whose major or minor requires this course.

Not open to Freshmen.

This course explores the development and interplay of the governmental powers established by the United States Constitution through the study of decisions handed down by the United States Supreme Court. It will examine the Supreme Court’s interpretation of the Constitutional separation of powers among the executive, legislative, and judicial branches as well as the powers of the national government in relation to the states. Like a law school classroom, students will be required to come to class prepared to discuss the assigned cases and materials and will be called on at random.

Note: ALL students who would like to register for this course MUST attend the first class. Students who do not attend the first class, including those on the wait list, will NOT be permitted to add this course.

Open to Juniors and Seniors.

CRJU 450-010  Prisoners and the Law  TR  2:00pm-3:15pm
Instructor: Haas

An examination of the legal rights available to prisoners seeking to challenge their convictions or their conditions of confinement. Emphasis on analyzing the capacity of courts to spur prison reform and the impact of court decisions on American penal practices.

CRJU 457-010  Criminal Evidence  M  6:00pm-9:00pm
Instructor: O’Connor

The study of the laws of evidence, how they are used in the criminal courts, and their effect on the administration of justice.

ECON 360-010  Government Regulation of Business  MWF  9:05-9:55am
Instructor: Butler

Government policies and regulations affect business activity both directly and indirectly. In this course, students will study the economic implications of various regulation mechanisms and analyze the effects of laws on both firms and consumers. In addition, recent developments in antitrust law, environmental regulations, and structural industry changes will be discussed. Relevant cases will be incorporated.
By the end of this course, students should be able to: (1) understand the pros and cons of competitive markets and government regulation, (2) think critically about news reports regarding mergers and acquisitions and understand how antitrust laws relate, and (3) analyze the effects of regulation on various industries such as transportation, news and energy.

The format of the course includes lecture, mathematical problem-solving, group discussions, participation in experiments, and a group presentation. Weekly reading is mandatory, though extra resources to simplify the material are provided. The course grade is primarily determined by exams, homework and participation.

The required prerequisite is ECON 101. Although it is not required, students are strongly urged to take either ECON 300 or ECON 301 as an additional prerequisite. The material is rooted in economic theory, and mathematical problem-solving is an important component of the course. Students who have not taken ECON 300 or ECON 301 will need to put in significant time at the beginning of the semester to catch up; extra reading and resources are provided.
