The First Amendment

MWF

11:15-12:15pm

Instructor: Batchis

This course focuses on the Supreme Court's interpretation of the First Amendment of the United States Constitution. Through intensive readings of Supreme Court cases, the course will explore the constitutional freedoms of speech, press, religion, and the separation of church and state.

The class examines a broad range of First Amendment topics, comparable to what a student would cover in a law school First Amendment class. We will read constitutional decisions addressing school prayer, government subsidies for religion, speech that provokes violence, defamation, threatening speech, commercial advertising, obscenity, child pornography, hate speech, expression in public places, government speech, symbolic expression, and freedom of association.

Participation is mandatory. Students will be called on randomly throughout the duration of each class. Students are required to consistently come to class prepared to discuss the assigned cases and materials.

Note: ALL students who would like to register for this course MUST attend the first class. Students who do not attend the first class, including those on the waiting list, will NOT be permitted to add this course.

Open to students whose major or minor requires this course.

Not open to Freshmen.

ECON 360-010 Government Regulation of Business MWF 9:05-9:55am
Instructor: Butler

Government policies and regulations affect business activity both directly and indirectly. In this course, students will study the economic implications of various regulation mechanisms and analyze the effects of laws on both firms and consumers. In addition, recent developments in antitrust law, environmental regulations, and structural industry changes will be discussed. Relevant cases will be incorporated.

By the end of this course, students should be able to: (1) understand the pros and cons of competitive markets and government regulation, (2) think critically about news reports regarding mergers and acquisitions and understand how antitrust laws relate, and (3) analyze the effects of regulation on various industries such as transportation, news and energy.

The format of the course includes lecture, mathematical problem-solving, group discussions, participation in experiments, and a group presentation. Weekly reading is mandatory, though extra resources to simplify the material are provided. The course grade is primarily determined by exams, homework and participation.

The required prerequisite is ECON 101. Although it is not required, students are strongly urged to take either ECON 300 or ECON 301 as an additional prerequisite. The material is rooted in economic theory, and mathematical problem-solving is an important component of the course. Students who have not taken ECON 300 or ECON 301 will need to put in significant time at the beginning of the semester to catch up; extra reading and resources are provided.
