POSC 405-010 Constitutional Law MWF 11:15am - 12:05pm
Instructor: Batchis

Students are required to attend the first class meeting

This course explores the development and interplay of the governmental powers established by the United States Constitution through the study of decisions handed down by the Supreme Court. It will examine the constitutional separation of powers between the executive, legislative, and judicial branches as well as federalism, the manner in which the power is divided between the national government and the states. Like a law school classroom, students will be required to come to class prepared to discuss the assigned cases and materials and will be called on at random.

Note: ALL students who would like to register for this course MUST attend the first class. Students who do not attend the first class, including those on the wait list, will NOT be permitted to add this course.

POSC 459-010 Sexuality and Law TR 11:00am - 12:15pm
Instructor: Rasmussen

Examines the regulation of sexual practices and identities through the law with a specific focus on how the development of political policy and legal norms at the state and federal level reflects changes in sexual norms as a consequence of social movement activity.
Who has the right to vote or become a political candidate in America, and why? What does it mean to be fairly represented? Can speech be limited during a political campaign under the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution? What kinds of restrictions on campaign contributions and spending are permissible? What happens when elections go wrong? This course explores the legal rules that govern elections and the political process in America. Some of these legal rules are derived directly from the U.S. Constitution, others from laws passed by Congress or state legislatures. The class will focus on court decisions interpreting these rules. This will involve a deep dive into a wide range of election-related topics including voting rights and representation, freedom of speech in campaigns, redistricting and gerrymandering, the role of political parties and primaries, campaign finance law, and election administration.

Interdisciplinary Courses B: Electives
